The Real Map of Ireland

Currently Designated Irish Continental Shelf

The continental shelf is the extension of a state's territorial waters above the depth of 200 m. The coastal state exercises sovereign rights for the purpose of exploring it and exploiting its natural resources, subject to the provisions of Part VI of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea.

Bathymetry data is from various sources:
- PDN 1996, ISSG 2000-2005

Endoded feature names are derived from European Digital Elevation Model (EU-DEM), version 1.1, http://www.eumetsat.org/